New Tariffs for Water end user

Today the 30th January 2019, the Regulatory Authority announces new water end user tariffs which will be effective on Friday 1st February 2019. The tariffs have been reviewed in consideration of the following drivers:

- Required investments to increase both access of water services and performance in urban water provision.
- New categorization of customers based on the usage into residential and non-residential places.
- Maintenance of auxiliary water network and inflation.

The existing water tariffs for industrial customers and public water taps were maintained to attract investors and cater for affordability issues respectively.

The new water end user tariffs are as follows:
